

MAY HAVE A SURPRISE

Nan Patterson's Council Do
Not Know

WHAT PROSECUTION HAS

Secured in the Way of Evidence About the Whereabouts of Her Brother-in-law, J. Morgan
Smith.

New York, Dec. 10.—Although Nan Patterson's counsel, Abraham Levy, Henry W. Unger and Daniel O'Reilly, profess confidence that the outcome of her trial for murder must be an acquittal, they evidently do not know exactly what evidence Asst.-Dist. Atty. Rand and Garvan have obtained relating to the disappearance of her brother-in-law, J. Morgan Smith, and his wife, Mrs. Julia Patterson Smith.

In the former trial, which was brought to an abrupt close through the illness of a juror, this phase of the case had not been reached. In his opening to the jury in the present trial, Mr. Rand accentuated the importance of Smith in the case on the ground that it was he that had purchased the revolver in Hyman Stern's pawnshop the day before "Caspar" Young was killed.

"We will show how Smith went away, where he went to, and who helped him to go," said Mr. Rand.

It was probably to lay the foundation for this testimony that Mr. Rand called Mr. O'Reilly, one of the lawyers for the defense, to the witness stand Friday afternoon and questioned him about Mr. and Mrs. Smith's relationship to Nan Patterson. Mr. O'Reilly is supposed to have been specially retained in the case by a man who was frequently seen in the company of the actress before her arrest.

Smith and his wife lived with Nan Patterson at the St. Paul Hotel. Both of them went to the corner's office at the time she was taken there by the police. It was after they had seen her that her handbag, which plays a prominent part in the testimony, disappeared.

Although, according to the defendant's statements to the police there had been no scuffle in the room before the shooting, she told Policeman Quinn that the handle of the bag had been broken "in the excitement." The bag is said to have been fully large enough to contain the revolver which was found in Young's coat pocket after he was shot, the woman having almost denied knowing where the revolver was, and afterward asserted that she had placed her hand on it in the pocket after Young fell over her lap.

Smith was under subpoena to appear before the grand jury when he disappeared on the day the pawnbroker who sold the revolver was located. He would be liable to arrest if found in this state, but he could not be extradited. His whereabouts has hitherto escaped the vigilance of the newspapers.

His flight formed a link in the chain of evidence against his sister-in-law. The purchase of the revolver on the eve of the shooting and the allegation that she carried it with her when Young was about to leave her will be put forward to show premeditation. Although Mr. Rand announced that premeditation need not consume any appreciable length of time, being the flash of the brain that had formed an intent. If Nan Patterson intended to shoot Young, the time that she took to deliberate is not material.

According to Mr. Rand, the motive is not essential, except as additional evidence of guilt. It is not necessary for him to show motive, though it is easy to surmise that he will assert, in summing up, that she shot Young because he insisted on leaving her.

The woman spent a quiet day in the Tombs. Her father spent a part of the forenoon with her and cheered her with promises that he would soon take her home. Her trial will be resumed Monday morning.

NERVY BANK ROBBERS.

Stole $500 in Peoria and Drove Off Pursued.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 10.—The Peoria national bank, in the heart of the business district, was robbed of $500 this afternoon by three men, two of whom leveled pistols at Teller F. A. Baker, while the third seized the money lying behind the window.

The men then dashed out of the bank after warning everybody not to make a move. Leaping into a buggy standing near they lashed their horse into a run. The streets were filled with people and the buggy was stopped for a moment by the crowd which had learned of the robbery.

A display of revolvers, however, frightened the crowd back and the robbers whipped up their horse. A big crowd joined in the chase. Several of the pursuers were in automobiles and managed to keep in sight of the men.

A Korean Minister's Flight.

The Korean minister at St. Petersburg is in sore straits, says the New York Tribune. His government, or what is left of it, has recalled him, but he has not money enough to get home. Since the outbreak of the war in the far east his salary has failed to reach him for some reason or other, and now he is in debt for $23,000. No government seems willing to pay his salary, and he cannot jump St. Petersburg without paying his bills, so he must stay there until some one or something goes to his rescue.

THE OLD AND NEW WAY

Some Important Facts Which May Prove Helpful.

Thirty years ago old-fashioned cod liver oil had to be forced down a patient's throat. Invalids couldn't take it, and children wouldn't. But the doctors prescribed it, and it had to be taken by force. Yet it cured people where enough could be taken into the system, for it has ever been the greatest of all tissue builders and general reconstructors known to medicine.

We are now anxious to have every one know that Vinol is a new form of this very old and valuable remedy, cod liver oil. It contains in a concentrated form all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cod's livers, but by a new process it is made without oil or grease, and it is as delicious to the taste as a fresh orange.

Vinol does not upset the stomach like old fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions; its strengthening and healing properties are remarkable, and both doctors and patients are delighted with its action.

Many wonderful cures right here in Barre have been effected by its use, and we ask all of our customers to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money every time it fails to make rich, red blood, increase the appetite, cure stomach troubles, give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, run down, tired and debilitated, or cure chronic colds, hacking coughs or bronchitis. TROLLEY CAR ENTERS HOUSE.

Half the Side of House Came Out And Rooms Wrecked.

Somers, Ct., Dec. 10.—An electric car on the Somers & Enfield division of the Hartford & Springfield street railway left the track at Johnson's Corner in Somers today, and plunging 30 feet across a lawn, crashed through the side wall of a house, stopping finally when half its length was within the parlor.

The top of the car and the trolley pole also wrecked the room above the parlor. This room was occupied by two children of Paul Richards, who were thrown from the bed in which they were sleeping, but, fortunately, sustained no injury.

The motorman and conductor escaped by jumping just before the car struck the house. There were no passengers in the car. It is estimated that the damage to the house will amount to several thousand dollars, one wall having been almost completely torn away.

Slide Victims Not Found.

Rutland, Dec. 10.—After digging in the quarry of Griffith & Nathaniel at Poulney until this afternoon, the bodies of the two men who were buried by a slide Tuesday were not found. It is believed it will be several days more before their efforts will be successful.

MRS. ROGERS "LOOKS FINE"

Such is Comment On the Murderess' Condition.

PLANS FOR EXECUTION

At Windsor Prison Are Well Under Way — Sheriff Peck Does Not Fancy
Job.

Windsor, Dec. 10.—No one can see Mrs. Mary Rogers, condemned to death by hanging Feb. 3, 1905. She is in her solitary cell in the state prison here and has been since Nov. 1. All published reports of interviews with her since that time are untrue.

Mrs. Rogers has not suffered mentally to such a degree that it has undermined her health or aged her looks. On the contrary, from the freely expressed opinions of the members of the legislative committee which journeyed from Montpelier to Windsor the other day to make the biennial inspection of the institution, she is doing little worrying.

The members saw her on their rounds of the prison, and the remark made by one of the later on that she "looked fine" was concurred in by the others. Other information trickling out from the guards who have had charge of her denotes that her mental attitude toward the terrible nature of her crime or her present situation is of a light-minded nature.

She expects that the governor will order a stay of proceedings, which will throw the onus of her execution upon another legislature, two years hence, when her chances are again good for having her sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

She does not fret under the prison discipline and indeed, now that she is in solitary confinement, the hours of rising and compulsory work are not as rigid as when she formed in line and went forth to daily labor about the institution.

The matron gives her such occupation as can be taken up in her cell and sees to her meals and other requirements. She can see any of the town clergymen she chooses, but up to now Chaplain Fuller of the prison has been her spiritual adviser. Her mother will be admitted whenever she can come, but it is quite a journey from Hooksett Falls for Mrs. Calligan in her present state of health and finances. To all others admittance is refused.

Sheriff Henry H. Peck of Windsor county, who is to be the hangman, took office Dec. 1, after 16 years' service as deputy sheriff. He is not looking forward to his job with any relish. He is a veteran of the civil war and a native of Western. After the civil war he engaged in the chair manufacturing business in Hartford, where his residence now is. Since being deputy sheriff his office has been in White River Junction. He is a widower, having lost his wife this fall.

The cards of admission to be issued for the hanging will all come from Sheriff Peck. The law allows no more than 100 spectators at an affair of this kind and it has been the custom of conservative Vermonters to limit the number to 25, including the medical men, the clergymen, relatives of the prisoner and the superintendent of the prison. Mr. Peck has already promised some of the tickets.

The gallows to be used are the same used 22 years ago, when the last murder was to be hanged in this state was taken to pieces and put away. It is not because there has been no murder done in Vermont for 22 years that it has not been used since Elnora Meeker was hung.

Murders have, if anything, been rather frequent, but the powers of the legislature to commute sentence or to approve of sending to the asylum for the insane have been worked to the utmost, and there are at present three murderers under commuted sentence in the state prison and a couple in the hospital for the insane.

NOW CANADA'S GOVERNOR.

Earl Gray Formally Installed into Office at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 10.—The guns of the citadel have conveyed the official announcement to the people of Halifax today that Albert Henry George, Earl Gray, has been formally installed into the vice royal office of governor-general of Canada. The new representative of the crown reached the harbor this morning on the English steamship Parisian, and was sworn in within an hour after he had landed.

Railroad Fireman With a Title.

William Van Eltz, a German nobleman, has been given employment as a fireman on the Michigan Central railroad through the intercession of President Ledyard, says a Laporte, Ind., special dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald. His run is from Jackson to Michigan City. He will be promoted to other positions by President Ledyard that he may acquire knowledge of every branch of railroading and will finally return to Germany and take charge of an extensive railroad system there. Van Eltz has discarded all of his finery, and but for the knowledge of his rank he would not be singled out as a distinguished personage.

CATSKILLS HELD LONG LOST LASS

Lulu McLoughlin of Newark, Who Says
She Was Kidnapped, Recovered by Detective From Woman in Manor Kill.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 10.—Lulu McLoughlin, who disappeared mysteriously from her home June 15, 1903, was brought back today and restored to her mother by a detective, who says that he found her in Manor Kill, in the Catskill mountains. The girl, who is 14 years of age, tells a story of having been kidnapped by a woman, taken to Manor Kill and compelled to do all kinds of drudgery on a farm there. She says she repeatedly tried to communicate with her parents, but was too closely watched.

Since the girl's disappearance her father has died. For months after she dropped out of sight search was made for her in all directions, and the police all over the country were notified.

Capt. Howard Winne, a Catskill guide, informed the police of Newark a few days ago that a girl was being detained at Manor Kill. A complaint was sworn out, and, accompanied by the guide, the detective started for the Catskills. The detective says he found the girl at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Rooke in Manor Kill.

When Mrs. Rooke was told that he intended to take the girl she protested, but when informed by the detective that he had a document that could cause her arrest, she allowed the child to go.

Lulu says that Mrs. Rooke, who formerly lived in Newark, told her one day that she was going away, and asked her how she would like to go along, telling her not to speak to her mother of it.

Mrs. Rooke, a few days later, proposed that the girl go with her daughter to Plainfield on a visit. The child consented. From Plainfield, she says, she was brought to New York, where she was met by Mrs. Rooke, who took her on a steamboat to Manor Kill. The girl says that she has had the hardest kinds of work.

There was an affecting scene when the child was restored to her home today, the mother being almost overcome with joy.

JUDGE HUBBARD LOSES ARM.

Was Alighting From Moving Train at Middlebury.

Middlebury, Dec. 11.—Asa A. Hubbard of Whiting, ex-judge of probate for Addison county, fell under the cars here yesterday morning in attempting to alight from a moving train and his right arm was so badly mangled between the hand and the elbow that amputation was necessary. Mr. Hubbard is 70 years old, and the shock of the accident coupled with his present physical condition of exhaustion following a severe mental strain in court, renders his recovery somewhat doubtful.

Mr. Hubbard has been busy and much concerned of late over the trial of an important will case in which he is a party, and the jury Friday night returned a verdict in his favor. He went to the railroad station this morning to help an old woman who had been a witness in the case aboard the passenger train southbound for Rutland at 9:45 o'clock, and it was when alighting from the train after it had started that the accident occurred.

ROOT-DORLON TEAM WIM RACE

BRITT-NELSON FIGHT.

Former Likely to Be the Favorite in Coming Battle.

San Francisco, Dec. 10.—With the date set for his battle with Jimmy Britt less than two weeks off, Battling Nelson, the Chicago boy who conquered "Young Corbett," to day resumed his training where he left off with it to fight the Denverite. Nelson will keep hard at work from now until the day of the big fight.

"Battling has decided to abandon his plans for a rest before beginning work for Britt," said Manager Ted Murphy today. "We have talked the matter over and we both think it better for him to go right on with his work. After he whips Britt there will be plenty of time in which to rest up."

Murphy announced that Nelson's training camp will remain without change. Eddie Santry will continue to act as Nelson's trainer and chief sparring partner.

Nelson continues in a happy frame of mind and is full of confidence in his ability to lower the colors of the coast idol.

"Do you know, I think Britt will be the easiest man I have tackled so far in my career," said Nelson, today. "He doesn't seem to be able to hit hard enough to kill a flea. Unless he puts more force behind his blows when he meets me than he has in his previous fights, I don't see what's to prevent me boring in and putting him down for the count before the fight has fairly started. I am confident that I can beat him."

Despite Nelson's confidence and his recent brilliant victory over "Young Corbett," the native son feeling is so strong on the coast that the Chicago boy will again enter the ring as the long shot in the betting. From the present outlook Britt will rule a 5 to 6 favorite, and possibly a 5 to 7 favorite.

Nelson this morning contented himself with a long road run, followed by a cold plunge and a brisk rub down. Tomorrow he will resume his boxing with Eddie Santry.

A Commodore Vanderbilt Relic.

Workmen engaged in excavating the subway loop at Whitehall street in New York recently uncovered a part of the old wharf which the oldest inhabitants of that section of the city say is the dock built by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt to land the old steamboats at which in the first half of the last century used to ply between the Battery and Staten Island. The diggers also unearthed an American copper cent, dated 1803, just above the planking of the dock, while near by was an English halfpenny piece dated 1775, says the New York American. An old cannon ball bearing the English coat of arms and an arrow were also dug up.

Automobile For Sawing Wood.

Palmer Jordan, a farmer living at Danielson, Conn., is doing almost all the wood cutting in his neighborhood at a low rate, says the Boston Herald. He bought an old automobile in Providence, R. I., a few weeks ago and fixed it up so that he can attach a belt to the machinery to run a saw. He carries the saw around in the automobile and goes from one farmer to another cutting their wood for them.

Robin Hood's Barn.

"Robin Hood's barn" was Sherwood forest. In the days of the noted outlaw this was many miles in extent; hence "to go all around Robin Hood's barn" signified a widely circuitous course. The phrase is often used to describe verbosity and vagueness in speech.

I therefore let you know that I shall recommend them to any one suffering from such troubles."
